

NO IMPORT OF CHOCOLATE MACADAMIA NUTS AFFECTED BY SALMONELLA CONTAMINATION IN AUSTRALIA

17 October 2011: The Food Safety Australia New Zealand has issued a notice on the recall of chocolate macadamia nuts in Australia due to the presence of Salmonella detected during the routine testing by the manufacturing company, Paton's Macadamia Plantations Pty Ltd. The affected products were distributed for sale at tourist souvenir gift shops in Australia, as well as exported to Guam and Thailand.

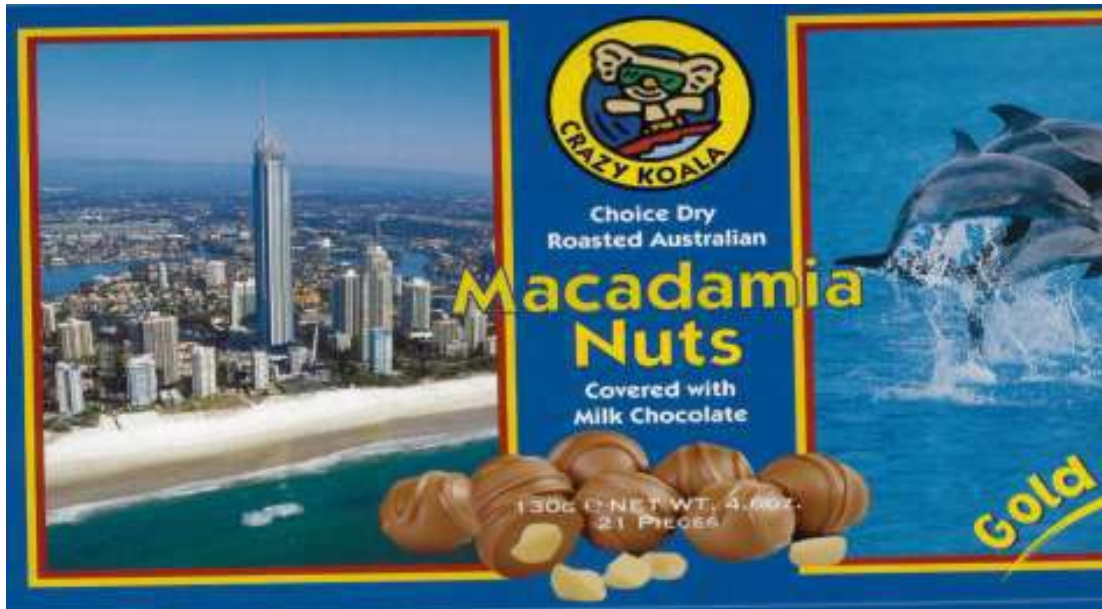

2 There is no import of the affected products into Singapore. Nevertheless, AVA advises consumers to discard the affected products if they had purchased the products outside of Singapore for personal consumption.
