

An unprecedented standard of herb quality – developed locally, recognised globally.

As the premier name in Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM), Eu Yan Sang is leading the way into a new era of unparalleled quality assurance, with the Eu Yan Sang GOOD AGRONOMIC PRACTICES for Herbs (EYSGAP-Herbs) certification scheme. A global standard pioneered in Singapore by Eu Yan Sang, it is developed in collaboration with Agrifood Technologies Pte Ltd (ATP), a subsidiary of the Agri-Food & Veterinary Authority of Singapore (AVA) to ensure food safety and traceability for TCM herbs at all times.

The EYSGAP-Herbs certificate

Consumers have always been assured of quality with Eu Yan Sang. Now with EYSGAP-Herbs certification, they can enjoy the added guarantee of a dependable product in every stage of its production process – from raw-herb state at the farm, to when it is packed and ready-for-sale on the store shelf.

That is the essence of this modern holistic approach towards TCM quality assurance – understanding that the principles of Good Agronomic Practices (GAP) extend far beyond just agricultural production processes. Hence control systems are adopted every step of the way, including “above-soil” operations such as post-harvest handling and sales of commodities/raw materials, manufacturing processes, as well as the sales and distribution of end products to customers.

1. Herbal Production
GAP covers cultivation, plant growth, crop protection and maintenance practices.

2. Sale of Commodities/Raw Materials
Administrates harvesting and post-harvesting handling of TCM herbs.

3. Manufacturing/Packaging
Ensures good manufacturing practices in processing, packaging, storage and transport processes.

4. Distribution/Sales
Assurance of premium quality herbal products at Eu Yan Sang retail outlets worldwide.

To YOU

Now with EYSGAP-Herbs certification, consumers can be assured of the definitive mark of TCM quality.

Eu Yan Sang is proud to roll out this scheme with a bestselling favourite among their customers – Eu Yan Sang Lingzhi Cracked Spores Powder Capsules, now fortified with the added assurance of EYSGAP-Herbs certification.
